Pet-Safe Celebrating

The holidays can be a time of festivity, warmth, and celebrating for humans. But all the lovely decorations that make the home feel so inviting can be deadly for cats and dogs. With a little thought, however, the home can be safe for all to enjoy. To begin with, make sure all thawing foods are placed safely out of reach. Be careful not to leave glass balls anywhere a cat or dog could reach and chomp on, thinking it's playtime. Also, beware of decorations like tinsel that are long and stringy. Instead of candles with flames, use safer flameless candles, and be sure that the fireplace is guarded from nosy puppies or kittens, who could get in and get burned.

Of course, you want to include your pets in the festivities, but as you celebrate this holiday season, try to keep your pet's eating and exercise habits as close to their normal routine as possible. Please be sure to contact us if your pet needs medical attention. Located at 1055 Grass Valley Hwy., we have the experience to effectively treat your pet for most medical conditions, and urge you to have your pet receive a medical checkup regularly. P.S. Consider a fence or fireplace screen to keep cats and dogs away from a Christmas tree.
